A Brief History Of Cinco De Mayo

Cinco de Mayo (which means May 5th) celebrates a victory of the Mexican Army over the French Army in the Battle of Puebla on May 5, 1862.

It was a great victory because it was very unexpected. France at that time was still very powerful and had many troops in Mexico.

Mexico gained its independence from Spain in 1810. But the Mexican War with the United States and the Mexican Civil War almost entirely wiped out the Mexican Treasury. During these wars, Mexico had borrowed heavily from European countries, including France. In the early 1860s, Mexico stopped paying France back. France's answer was to invade Mexico.

The French had tried to make Archduke Maximilian of Austria the ruler of Mexico. Under his command, French troops marched from the Gulf of Mexico toward Mexico City.

Mexican General Ignacio Zaragoza and about 5,000 troops met the 6,000-strong French army at the Battle of Puebla. The Mexican victory was incredible. It stopped the French cold, at least for awhile.

But more French troops returned, and this time they succeeded. French rule of Mexico was short, however. In 1867, pressure from the United States and from other concerns abroad convinced France to abandon its Mexican empire. Mexico was free once again.

The importance in the Battle of Puebla is in the ability of a smaller, more poorly equipped army to defeat a larger, well-equipped one. The Mexican people also showed that they were willing to defend their homeland from invaders. This victory also punched a hole in the European mystique, which held that European governments and armies were by their very nature more powerful than other, smaller countries and their armies.

Cinco De Mayo Crafts

Mexican Flag

This is a fun little Mexican Flag craft

- Construction Paper
- Red, White and Green Tissue Paper
- Glue
- Craft Stick

Cut the construction paper to the size of your flag. Mark three equal areas for each of the three colors of the flag. Tear little pieces of tissue paper and crumble them up. Cover each area of the flag in its appropriate color (green, white and red).

After both sides of your construction paper are covered, glue the craft stick to one side as the flag pole.

Green White And Red Chains

- Construction Paper in Green, White and Red
- Scissors
- Tape or Glue

Paper chains are a great way to decorate for any occasion. For Cinco De Mayo use the colors of the Mexican flag, green, white and red.

Cut the paper into equal strips about one inch wide. Make loops out of the paper by gluing or taping the two ends together.

Make Your Own Pinata

What would a Mexican fiesta or of course Cinco de Mayo celebration be without a pinata. Here's how to make your very own.

- Balloon
- Newspaper
- Paste
- Tissue Paper
- Scissors
- Candy

Blow up the balloon to the size you would like your pinata to be. Cut the newspaper in strips and then add paste to each and cover the balloon. Make sure the entire balloon is covered in at least four layers of newspaper and paste. Wallpaper paste works well for this by the way.

Let the balloon dry overnight. The next day, when the newspaper layer is completely hardened, cut a small opening in one side of the balloon. Add the candy to the inside, then tape or glue the cutout part back on.

Glue tissue paper all over the pinata to decorate. Add long strips of tissue paper to the bottom.

Maracas

- Empty Yogurt cups w/ lids
- Tape
- Popsicle sticks
- Small beans

Directions: Collect empty yogurt cups that still have the lids. Decorate a festive cover which will be taped around the yogurt cup to hide the words. Tape a popsicle stick to one side of the cup (masking tape seems to hold better than glue). Put about 15 to 20 small beans inside the cup and tape closed.

Tissue Paper Flowers

- Tissue Paper in different colors
- Scissors
- Green Pipe Cleaners

Cut the tissue paper in squares of about 8 to 10 inches wide.

Layer a few (about 4 or 5) sheets of the paper on top of each other and fold them like an accordion.

Tie the pipe cleaner around the middle of the long, accordion-folded piece of tissue papers.

Fold both ends of the tissue paper up and gently pull the different layers of paper out to form the flower.

For colorful flowers use different colors of tissue paper for each flower. Wear it in your hair or add them to a vase.

Sombrero Craft

- Large Paper Plate
- Paper Bowls
- Hot Glue
- Glue
- Paint
- Yarn
- Small Pompoms
- Hole Punch

Paint plate and bowl. Hot glue the bowl to the bottom of the plate. Punch holes in each side. Tie yarn in holes and tie around child's neck. Decorate with more paint and glue pompoms around the brim of the hat.

You can also make mini sombreros for table decorations by using a small paper plate and a small Styrofoam cup.

Paper Bag Poncho

- Large Paper Grocery Bags
- Bright markers
- Paints
- Crayons
- Paint brushes and water

Cut a hole in a paper bag so that your or your child's head can fit through. Cut slits up both sides of the bag. Decorate the paper bag poncho with brightly colored markers or paints or crayons.

Ojos de Dios

Spanish for "eyes of God", Ojos de Dios are simple enough for a small child to create.

For each Ojo you will need:

- 2 Popsicle/craft sticks
- 2 or 3 colors of yarn
- Glue and scissors

Start by gluing the 2 sticks together in the shape of a cross (parents can do this the day before and have them ready to go for the kids). Wrap the first piece of yarn around one stick where the sticks intersect. Then wrap it around the next "arm" of the cross, repeating with each "arm" several times. When you are ready to change colors, snip the yarn and tie the end of the next color to it and start wrapping again. You may change colors as often, or as little, as you wish. When you are finished simply knot the end around the last arm. Tie or glue a loop of yard at one end in order to hang the completed artwork.
